“TO BE A MAN” Lyrics

Guys,
You should’ve seen her
It was a hell a night
She had this sexy demeanor, leaner, louder, what a sight

She would scream and she’d moan
Not just my mind was blown
She had the scent of cologne, threw her a bone and said goodnight

So, guys, trust me
It’s like taking candy
It’s basically child’s play.
And oh my god. What the hell did I just say!?

What am I saying
I sound like an ass
This dumb game I’m playing
Weighing status over class

What if Rachel were here?
Well then you know how that’d go.
It would bring her to tears
It’s clear how much you love her shows

Mom always said to be the best
Dad said to lead with a firm chest
But now
I don’t know if I really can

Give me a break and let me be what I’ll be Take after take rehearsing every apology
Mistake after mistake
She still sees me as I am
But how long will it go on
Can I learn how to be a man
A man
These guys, they get the girl
Then save the whole damn world
And yet with them out there,
Rachel's curled up next to me

She's cares and it makes me care
About how she laughs and seeing photographs of our day

She stares and I stare
And a feeling comes over, I fear that I drove her away
But she stays

She stays
She stays and makes me ask
What's a man anyways?
What's a man anyways?

She gives me a break and helps me
Be who I am
Take after take, I falter then she smiles and bam!
No matter the mistake
She still sees who I could be
So I've got to push on
And learn to be a better me.